Insect Wards of Fire and Cypress

This sacred incense and essential oil ritual protects your space from yellow jackets, other bees, flies, and energetic intrusions. Using natural scents that repel pests and call in grounding forces, this practice weaves together fire, air, and earth.

Step 1: Incense Burn Placement

Burn at Entry Points:

- Any Cinnamon incense (fall entry points)
- White Sage incense (ball entry points)

Burn during the day, especially when windows and doors are open. Ensure airflow carries smoke outward.

Step 2: Pine cone Protection

Cypress Oil Pine cone Wards:

- Drop 4-5 drops of Cypress essential oil on a pine cone.
- Place one pine cone at every entry point.
- Refresh oil every 2-3 days or as scent fades.

As you place each pinecone, speak:

"You are a sentinel of the wild. Let no winged thief enter."

Optional Enhancements

Optional Enhancements:

- Mist doorways with peppermint essential oil spray throughout the day.
- Recite at incense lighting: "By cinnamon's flame and sage's breath, let no pest or ill intent pass this threshold."

Spiritual Closing

You've created a temple of elemental protection. Reapply essential oils and burn incense as needed
